The Yearbook

The Yearbook is a combination of creative photojournalism, graphic design, and written and personal expression.

This organization has the job of documenting the year, creating a sort of "Year in Review" developed in a highly personal style. In each yearbook we produce, we try to capture the unique quality of the year, striving to make a statement of that year's values and concerns, norms and memories. We want each year to stand out from every other, not mesh into one four-year mess.

Over the past few years each volume has had a separate statement to make, a different theme to develop. Over the past few volumes the book has been designed so that anyone can pick it up to enjoy and understand. As you look through this book, rather than aimlessly flipping from page to page wondering where-the-hell your picture is, take some time to absorb the feelings and expressions we at the yearbook are trying to express—make them part of your own memories and emotions of the time you've spent here.

College Life Union Board

Every year, CLUB's entertainment committees offer top-notch entertainment at affordable prices.

One of this year's most talked about programs was a visit to campus by controversial television talk-show host Morton Downey, Jr., who led a discussion of the MSC policies governing the consumption of alcohol on campus.

Other CLUB sponsored activities included on-campus movies, Homecoming, Fallfest, Spring Week with its popular carnival attractions, two lip-sync contests (one for "modern" groups and another featuring the sounds of the sixties), Comedy Showcase appearances by up-and-coming comedians, and the Winter and Spring Balls.

It's a rare student who hasn't benefitted in some way from the dedication and hard work of this organization.

2. Midnight Oil-Diesel and Dust
3. Mighty Lemon Drops-World Without End

Student Intramural And Leisure Council

The Student Intramural Leisure Council of Montclair State College is designed to meet the needs of those students seeking recreational opportunities. Members assume leadership roles in organizing, administering and supervising various recreational programs. Participants are afforded active and spectator roles in SILC's activities. This multi-faceted sports program provides equal opportunities for each individual to participate regardless of sex, age, sport interest or skill level.

Conservation Club

The Conservation Club is dedicated to helping members appreciate the beauty of nature, and to motivating them to preserve the delicate ecological balance necessary for nature's survival. The Conservation Club does this by running hiking trips along the Apalachian Trail, rafting trips on the Delaware River, and through countless other activities.

Among the Club's primary goals has been to motivate the student body and society at-large to act to save our natural resources and environment. This is done by sponsoring such activities as Earth Day and the Earth Music Festival featuring Dave Orleans, and by publishing newsletters which address environmental issues.

The organization was founded 1969 when a group of students, trekking through the wilds of New Hampshire, were struck by the rugged beauty of their surroundings. At the same time, they realized that if similar experiences were to be shared by future generations it was necessary for concerned citizens to act to preserve the environment. The club's first meeting was thus convened atop Mt Monadnock. This small group of hikers established an organization dedicated to the principle that while man can improve the environment, great care must be taken to insure that he does not destroy it.

Black Students Cooperative Union

The Black Student Cooperative Union (BSCU) is one of the largest organizations on campus and strives to build unity among students, faculty, and administrators. Promoting black culture and history in the community is an important part of BSCU's programming as well. The BSCU has been responsible for the appearance on campus of many important Black Americans, including Rosa Parks, Lionel Hampton, and Ruby Dee.

Players

Players, the student theatrical company, mounted six productions this past year including "Lil Footsteps," "The Lady from Dubuque," and "Miss Reardon Drinks A Little."

New this year were a series of X-perimental one-acts, an evening of shorter performances intended to expose the audience to a variety of dramatic styles, and to permit the widest possible number of student dramatists to participate.

Among the year's highlights was the annual Cabaret Night, an opportunity for any student to showcase his musical, dramatic or comedic talents.

Players gives students a chance to immerse themselves in all aspects of theatrical production. From directing, to building sets, to costume designing, to lighting the stage, there are countless opportunities for involvement.

Class One Concerts

C1C is a totally student-run organization directly involved with all phases of concert production. Over the years, we've produced everything from THE TOUCH to BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN, and have had a great time doing it.

This year's programs featured THE RADIATORS and THE HOOTERS.

In addition to promoting concerts, we work to strengthen unity, diversity, individuality and knowledge of our members.

In short, C1C is the slightly radical organization which inhabits Room 117 of the Student Senate Annex and periodically emerges to present music at its best!

The Montclarion

What are the first thoughts that come to mind about working on the Montclarion?

-Smelly chemicals and probably getting cancer.

-It's one of the best weeklies in the tri-state area, and I'm part of it.

-Bits of copy all over my clothes.

What have you learned about people from working on the Montclarion?

-There will always be problems, but when needed we stick together.

-We're friends when it counts the most.

-I've learned to work with people, even though I may not like them.

To all the men of Montclair- We will not be satisfied until we have conquered the bodies of each and every one of you. It's inevitable, so don't fight us. Lustfully anyones, the Nymphos.

Falling off one's bike in front of the Student Center can be majorly embarrassing . . I feel.

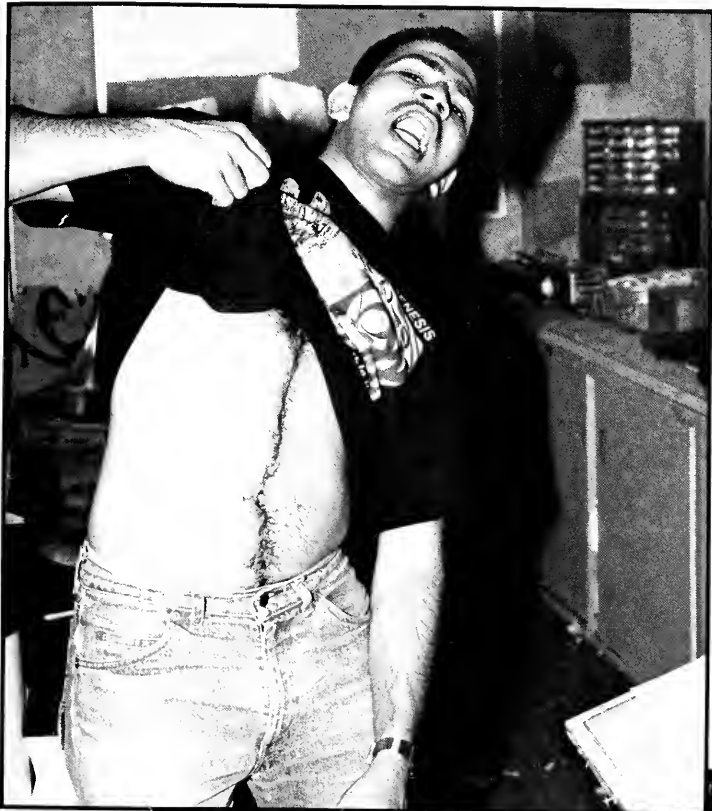

To all the couples conducting intimate acts of affection in Lot 30 in the back seats of old Chevys. Warning! Bus Drivers and the police are watching.

MSC (alias hair spray high school)- where girls go to . . . do what?

To the women of MSC thanks for nothing. Celibacy is my second major. I'm graduating with honors. Is there no hope for failure? I hate perfection. Find me then----me please. Stay tuned. Victorian.

Four Walls

Tonight, I gave birth
To a cascade of images and moments
Gathered on a blue-lined parchment that may, hopefully not, fade.

Today, I was in labor
Summing together strength, wisdom, restraint
Assisting the passage of ideas into form
That will go forth to bear fruit and witness.

Tonight, I rejoice that my offspring
breathes
The arid air of office,
The stagnant aroma of unknown
origin,
The bland crispness of life.

Tomorrow, I weep for that creation
That is no longer mine
Yet shall forever remain
Encased within these FOUR WALLS.

My Mother's Teeth

My mother has yellow marble teeth, nicely shaped and big.
She had a dream.
A string hung from her mouth,
she pulled it.
Out came her teeth on a line.

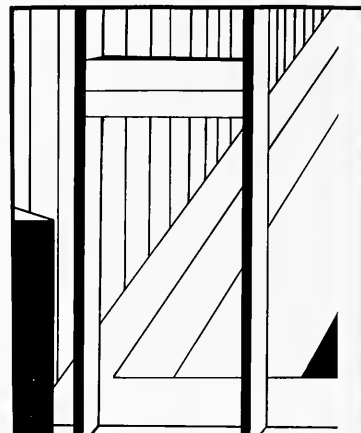

My grandfather has an old joke.
He says, "Her teeth are like the moon,
they come out at night."

My mother's teeth come out the morning.
They soak in the sink.
She wakes me up with no lips.
Her chin touches her nose.
"Rise and shine," she lisps.
I am annoyed.
I have my mother's smile.
I don't remember my dreams.

Latin American Students Organization

!Unidad! This was the goal our founders strove for when organizing the Latin American Student Organization. We at LASO, through our programming, strive to enlighten our college and our world to the need for Hispanic representation in the arts, education, and professions and politics.

For the first time, in November 1987, we expanded our traditional Latin Week to Latin-American Month. The month's activities included a fashion show with professional Brazilian models, a Hispanic alumni luncheon, a political protest against the U.S. English Movement, and much more.

As a Class One Organization of the Student Government, we, as a club and a people, have been able to educate the Montclair State College Community to the beauty and richness of our Latino culture. Our Hispanic ancestors came from various countries in Latin America and the Caribbean. Although a part of our hearts remains in the land of our parents, our quest for equality is here in the United States at Montclair State College as bi-lingual and bi-cultural Americans.

Student Government Association

The Student Government Association, or SGA as it is known to many, represents politics, services, student concerns and, most importantly, student programming.

Student programming is run by students just like you and I—students who go to classes, hold down jobs, study for tests, but who also commit themselves to the success of the Class One Organizations.

This past year I had the pleasure of working with eleven Class One Organizations which are responsible for planning and conducting student programming with your money.

Only today, as I walked through Class One Alley, I found myself thinking back to how my involvement with the SGA all started. I can still remember my second day of New Student Organization as then SGA President Dave Handal stood before my classmates and I, and stressed the importance of getting involved. It was on that day (August 18, 1984) that I vowed that I would make the most of my college days at Montclair State College.

Talk to the Class One presidents, and they will undoubtedly describe a year of frustrations (having administrators say “no” to almost everything), but they will all agree that the end result of any program or service that they are providing is a natural high.

Another clear frustration that is that Class One presidents do not always receive the credit they deserve. But I can honestly say that Class One programming could not succeed without the hard work and dedication of these student leaders.

What is the most embarrassing thing done to a professor during class?

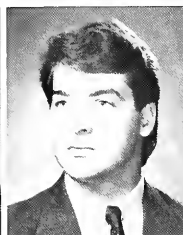

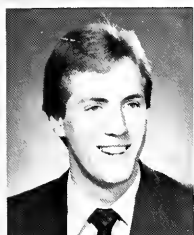

- Talking about my teacher and he was standing right behind me.
- Fired a spitball at my professor and had it stick to his glasses.
- Fell asleep in class and when my head hit the desk it made a loud thud.
- After lecturing for the entire hour and a half, he asked if there were any questions, a student said yes and asked what did we just learn

What is the most embarrassing thing you've ever done while drunk?

I don't know, I was really drunk at the time!

Punch a guy, because he bumped into me. I'm a girl.

Flashed my friend's mother.

Fell out a window.

I picked up my chest (size 36D) and leaned it up on a table while having beers with my boyfriend and his friends.

While playing Quarters, I swallowed the Quarter.

Singed my beard and hair while trying to lite my cigarette over a bonfire.

What's your philosophy on life as you leave Montclair State?

- If you think you've got problems-go back to add/drop.

-Look out world here I come. Abuse me!

-The world has plenty of money to give, and I will take every last penny of that money.

-As I have seen many faces of many people, I have also seen many faces within myself.

-I have learned a new philosophy on family . . . that without your family, everything else is worthless.

The Creator

Thirty-a-half years! Hell, I'm outta here, and God knows I've gotten alot as well. I don't know why I first stepped into this office. I think I was delivered here by God for Chris. He had nobody else, and that's the only reason I can think of that makes any sense. The reason why I stayed is a mystery as well. In all honesty, I probably stayed for selfish reasons. I got to produce, create, learn new skills, and if any of you saw my darkroom, the rest is obvious.

Before I left I wanted to say "thank-you" to some of the other Class One's:

Thank-you Montclairion. Do you readers realize these people stay up all night every Wednesday to put the paper together, not to mention all the other work they do during the rest of the week gathering information. I know it all goes unappreciated as well. "Where's my personal?" "God, this paper sucks!" "Where is it?"

Class One Concerts—they go through the unsurmountable frustrations of dealing with 1,000 (if they're lucky) screaming, drunken college students in addition to the administration and our soon-to-be-gun-toting Campus keystones every time they produce a show. Each factor pulls the organization's nerve endings in different directions. Thank-you C1C, from Mitch and Matt to Kathy and now Geoff.

Players-thank-you for building a separate little fantasy world completely apart from our everyday existence. These people build with their minds and hands a place to which we spectators may retreat. Thank-you Pasquale, Fox, and Natalie.

The time and effort the members of these organizations put in, only to be thanked with more frustrations and threats to their existence, can only be justified by the feelings of accomplishment they get by doing and creating.

No, they don't get money or honoraria. Everything these people do is voluntary. The only selfishness in it is to gain the experience, the knowledge and the special sense of achieving.

As for us here at the yearbook, thank-you Montclair for Washington, St. Louis, Boston, Atlanta, Penn State and all the other fun stuff in our office. It was a hell-of-a-stay here, and in 20 years I'll sit back in my villa in Kenya and read this over again thinking of how I should have made fun of the SGA instead.

Bye Montclair!

Don't ever forget the Creator . . .

Rod Stubina

PS: Thanks, Billy. This book wouldn't have gotten done without you.

Occasion Editor

This being my first editor's note, I didn't know where to start, but during a meeting with another editor, we realized how all editor's notes deal with the same subject. It's pretty much a given that these two groups will not get along, that they will have their differences.

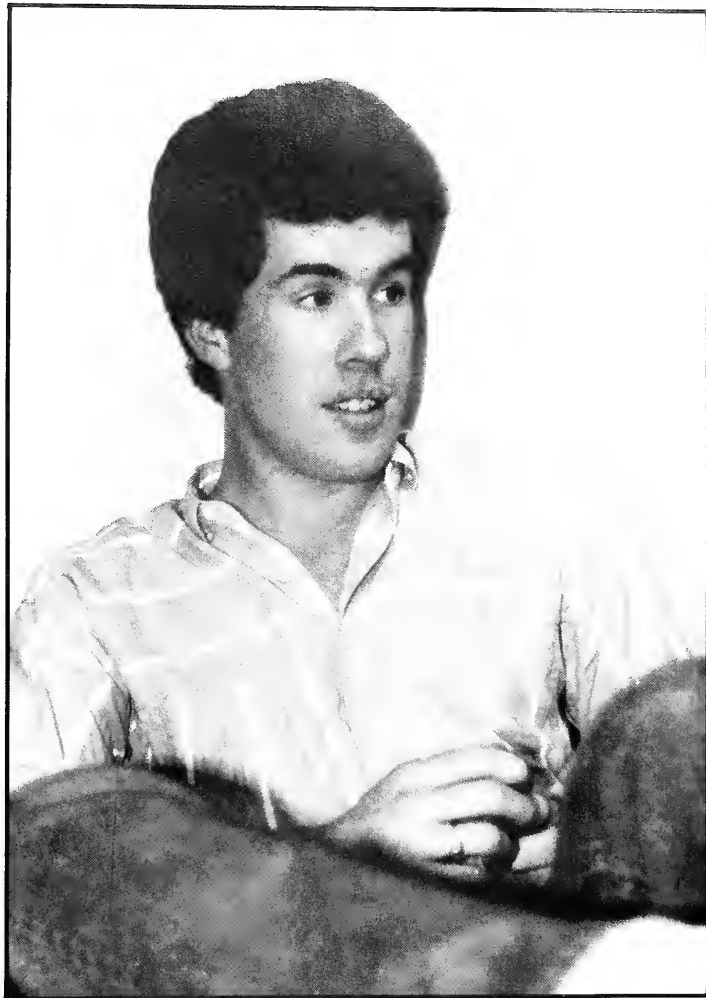

But this is not just a rumor. It's true. Everywhere you go there's a hassle over everything, especially when name plates are being discussed. The joke of the year was when a few people wanted to decharter us. After a long discussion and a tremendous waste of everyone's time, the majority said "enough" and gave us our charter. But a few days later some of the "few" asked to have their picture taken so they would be in the yearbook. We did put you in. But I think that's a double standard on your part.

Before school started, I was able to meet a number of the people I would be working with in the future. When asked what organization I would join, I responded, and their expressions read "OH GOD, not the yearbook!" which now makes me laugh because I understand why they say that. But that's not what makes the yearbook like no other organization. But it's different having friends who are no longer in school, but are around alot. They give you lines like "Don't be like the others," referring to past editors, or "Don't believe all you hear from them." And I thank those people for their knowledge and advice. But the bottom line is that I'm the yearbook editor. And I'll do what I've got to do.

In closing—A yearbook is not complete without thank-you's. So thanks to Renata, Gail, Tee, Maggie, Rod, Mom and Dad, and Dave (one story that's not all true).

That Old Gang Of Ours

Can I Open My Present?

A special thanks must be given to Bob Friedman and Jerry Salomone. To Bob for rushing our stuff and just putting up with all our last minute requests. And to Jerry for all he did—from being our peace-keeper to attending our all-day meetings during the summer, even the one's when the Annex was closed. Thanks again.
